ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An information retrieval system, ~~and a method of operating an information retrieval system for retrieving~~ retrieves information from a database in response to related queries submitted by a ~~user, wherein information~~ user. Information relating to possible interpretations of previous queries is stored and updated such that it may be used in order to disambiguate subsequent related queries and terms therein.

1295135